Frankfort Without Car Service When Traction Line Stops

The Joliet & Eastern Traction Co., which has been operating from Joliet to Chicago Heights, quit all passenger service Saturday, the last car being operated at midnight. Saturday afternoon the cars remaining at the car barns at Frankfort were all run to Joliet.

The freight car is being run once a day from Joliet to Chicago Heights to carry the milk and mail, until other arrangements can be made for handling same. The bus lines have put in bids for handling the mail.

Mail to New Lenox is dispatched via the Rock Island, Matteson mail goes on the Illinois Central, but Frankfort is the hardest to reach, as no passenger or mail carrying railroad operates thru Frankfort.

The traction line has had a stormy career. When it was first built the stockholders were made to believe they had a wonderful thing, but after the company had paid interest on the bonds for two periods, things began to look blue. No more interest was paid and there was no market for the bonds, which rapidly declined in value. Many of the bondholders who did not sell their bonds, and held on to them hoping that they might turn out alright, are still holding them. About a year or two ago a Mr. McCoy, formerly employed as motorman on the traction line, bought up all the bonds he could at 15 cents on the dollar.

The line was originally built by H. A. Fisher, who later pulled out of the company and went to Texas, where he died a year ago.

Frankfort people put $50,000 into the bonds of this company to get this line built thru Frankfort, and had fourteen years of service out of their investment. No interest was realized for years, and unless the bondholder took a few cents on the dollar, he is still holding his bonds.

It was understood that Mr. Eckman was willing to sell the line for $35,000. Joseph McGlashen and another party of Chicago and Folkers Bros. of Frankfort are reported to have offered Mr. Eckman $38,000, which he refused, it is said, and asks $11,000 more. Frankfort people are very sore at Mr. Eckman, and blame him for the troubles of the company.

Orland Village Election Is Hotly Contested

A red-hot election, which resulted in a general house-cleaning of the village council, took place Tuesday at Orland. Two tickets were in the field, and the contest was a red-hot affair with much spirit. The Citizen's ticket was defeated with the exception of A. C. Kay for trustee and Thos. Wheeler for treasurer. The result of the vote was as follows: For trustees: Edgar Cooper, 52; A. C. Kay, 83; A. C. Loebe, 64. For village treasurer: Thos. Wheeler, 80. For village clerk, William Witt, 76.

The opposition ticket, headed by James Cannon, elected all its candidates with the exception of Cannon. The vote was as follows: For trustees, James Cannon, 68; George M. Yunker, 87; Gebhardt Koehler, 8. For village clerk, Herman Kruspe, 78; for police magistrate, Walter Yunker, 10.

This was the hottest contested election Orland has had in years. Mr. Cannon is well satisfied with the result of the election, even tho he was defeated.

The new board is going to change the complexion of local affairs to a certain extent, it is said.

The Ladies' Guild held an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. B. Austin Thursday, April 20. A pot-luck dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cooper and sons Merrill and Floyd and Mrs. John Gee were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. George Megarry, of Frankfort, Sunday.

Professor Hewett of Evanston preached at the Orland M. E. church Sunday morning. The Cantata given by the choir Sunday night proved to be a great success. The choir will give this Cantata at Worth Sunday night, April 23rd, at 8 o'clock.

the loss of the traction line, as the M. C. and E. J. & E. railroads, which operate thru Frankfort, are only freight roads. Express matter is being sent via Rock Island to Mokena and then hauled here by truck. Passengers for Chicago usually go to Mokena and board the Rock Island trains there for the city.

It is not known definitely whether the line will be junked entirely, or whether some other concern may take hold of it.

Mokena Church to Celebrate Founding of Missouri Synod

The Mokena Lutheran Church is to join others throughout the United States and other countries in celebrating the Diamond Jubilee of the Missouri Synod. This great event—seventy-five years of sound Biblical teaching—will be observed on Sunday, May 7th, 1922. Just at this time the Mokena Lutheran Church looks back over a period of six years of slow, steady and wholesome growth.

Are you desirous of learning what the Lutheran church stands for? Our services are open to everyone. God willing, May 7th will be a banner day. Come and get a comprehensive history of Lutheranism on that day.

Instructive articles are appearing in all leading papers of our country. You will find them in this and following issues of The News-Bulletin. Read them; they are well worth your time.

Mokena Mineral Spring Farm Sold For $6000

The Mokena Mineral Spring farm, consisting of 20 acres and a number of buildings, was purchased from the Patterson family by John Gilmore, on Monday, for $6,000, which is considered a big bargain. The old Mineral Spring residence was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, and as the Patterson family did not care to rebuild it, they decided to sell the property.

Dan Kohl, who has been very ill the past week with quincy sore throat, is somewhat improved. Dr. Hedges of Frankfort has charge of the case, and had to lance Mr. Kohl's throat five times.

Strawberries have taken a big tumble in price in Mokena this week; the local stores had been selling them for 20 cents per pint box until Tuesday afternoon, when they dropped to 15 cents a box.

Mrs. Foedler of Grand Rapids, Mich., is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Wachter.

Harvey Reab has started building operations on his new bungalow, next to the Jean Liess home.

Rev. Roesner and family of New York City expect to locate in Mokena about the 15th of May. They will reside in the former Frink residence, which was recently bought by Albert Hellmuth for $2800.00. Rev. and Mrs. Roesner are the parents of Mrs. Hellmuth.

Rev. Walter Kemnitz and family have been spending the week in Chicago, where he preached Easter Monday and attended a three-day conference.

Thomas J. Cooper and family left this week for their new home at Red Bluff, Cal. He will be in the employ of the Forst Preserve there. Their many friends here are sorry to see them leave, but wish them much happiness and success in their new home.

Fred Hunter has been on the sick list the past few days.

The Mokena Camp of the M. W. A. have rented the Hatch hall for the year for hall purposes. A meeting was held last week and a number of new members were initiated.

St. John's Evangelical Church

WM. KREIS, Pastor

Next Sunday morning, when you hear the St. John's church bell ring, may it remind you of the invitation which we so cordially extend to you to worship with us at morning and evening services. The church school meets at 9:30, and preaching services at usual hours.

For the morning hour of worship (German) the pastor has chosen for his subject "The Value of Childhood," a subject that will interest parents, Sunday school teachers, and all those who are interested in the movement for better religious education of the children.

At the evening service the pastor will use the stereopticon in illustrating his sermon, "The Voyage of Life." The pictures are splendid, and no church member or friend can afford to miss this service. Special music. Everybody is welcome.

MISSOURI SYNOD 75 YEARS OLD

National Lutheran Body Celebrates Diamond Jubilee With Special Services Throughout Country.

BEGAN WITH 12 CHURCHES

Now Does Extensive Mission Work at Home and Abroad—Charity Carried on in Many Institutions.

On April 26 the Evangelical-Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states, commonly called the Missouri Synod, will be seventy-five years old. This event will be duly observed by Lutherans throughout the country, as the above named Synod is represented in practically every state of the Union, with branches in Canada, South America and other foreign countries. Special jubilee services are to be held in all the churches and joint meetings in the larger cities. It is hoped that a large sum of money will be raised as a thank offering, to be applied to the building of churches and chapels in Europe and China, where energetic mission work is being carried on.

In 1847 a mere handful of men met in Chicago for the purpose of bringing the conservative Lutheran church in the Central States into closer affiliation. Twelve congregations were represented by their pastors and lay delegates, and these, together with a few other pastors who joined as advisory members, organized what was destined to become the largest individual Lutheran Synod now extant, numbering at present about 3,200 congregations, with nearly 3,000 pastors, over 650,000 communicant members, and a baptized membership of more than 1,000,000. The value of the church property owned by member congregations is approximately $55,000,000, and the various educational institutions of synod represent an additional investment of $10,000,000.

The conservative doctrinal position of the original twelve congregations has been maintained throughout all these years. Synod stands foursquare upon the Scriptures as the infallible word of God, the only source of articles of faith and sole rule of conduct. Accordingly questions of doctrine and practice are decided, not by considerations of expediency, but by the clear words of the Bible. Many people are rather amazed that synod has had such a remarkable growth, notwithstanding this conservative position, while its friends and members find in this very position the secret of its growth.

Intense missionary activity unquestionably is largely responsible for the continued numerical progress of the organization. At the present time 630 pastors are engaged in this work, serving 1,360 missions. Foreign missions are conducted in India and China, England, Brazil, Argentina, France, Germany and other countries.

Another factor contributing to the growth of synod is its parochial school system. These schools are conducted in every way along the lines of our public schools, in many instances articulating with these, only in addition to the secular curriculum they give the children a thorough religious training. In some of the larger cities, Lutheran high schools are also maintained. Twelve colleges and collegiate institutes with a student body of nearly 2,100 afford opportunities for higher education. In two seminaries over 500 young men are preparing themselves for the ministry. Concordia Seminary at St. Louis, operated by synod, is probably the largest institution of its kind in America, among the Protestant bodies at any rate.

Extensive Charity Work

The Missouri Synod has always laid special emphasis on the cardinal doctrine of the Scriptures that man is saved by grace alone through faith. At the same time, however, it always stresses the point that saving faith most naturally will be active in corresponding works of charity after the manner of the Master. Accordingly provision is made for the care of the sick and the helpless and the needy. Fifteen hospitals and two sanitariums are located in larger centers of population, having a property value of $4,087,000 and giving treatment to some 22,000 patients annually, much of which is charity pure and simple. Nine orphanages, valued at $550,000, shelter 650 children. Thirteen home-finding societies gather up some 200 waifs a year and place them in Christian homes for adoption. Two training schools for neglected children, a school for deaf-mutes, a home and school for epileptics, are other institutions of mercy conducted for the benefit of poor and afflicted children. Nine homes for the aged provide hospitable shelter for nearly 400 helpless old people, and five hospices or homes, chiefly for working girls, are conducted, besides hospices for transients in every large city. The disbursements for all organized charitable purposes during the past year were $1,548,710.

Captain Magnus looked more ill at ease than usual.

"Did you think o' rowin' the whole way round the dingy chunk o' rock?" he inquired.

"Certainly not," said Mr. Shaw with an impatient frown. So the man, in addition to his other unattractive qualities, was turning into a shirk! Hitherto, with his strength and feverish, if intermittent, energy, plus an almost uncanny skill with boats, he had been of value. "Certainly not. We are going to make a careful survey of the cliffs, and explore every likely opening as thoroughly as possible. It will be slow work and hard. As to circumnavigating the island, I see no point in it, for I don't believe the chest can have been carried any great distance from the cove."

"Oh—all right," said Captain Magnus.

Mr. Tubbs, who had been whispering with Aunt Jane and Miss Browne, now with a very made-to-order casualness proposed to the ladies that they take a stroll on the beach. This meant that the triumvirate were to withdraw for discussion, and amounted to notice that henceforth the counsels of the company would be divided.

Captain Magnus, after an uneasy wriggle or two, said he guessed he'd turn in. Cookie's snores were already audible between splashes of the waves on the sands. The Scotchman, Cuthbert Vane and I continued to sit by the dying fire. Mr. Shaw had got out his pipe and sat silently puffing at it. He might have been sitting in solitude on the topmost crag of the island, so remote seemed that impassive presence. Was it possible that ever, except in the sweet madness of a dream, I had been in his arms, pilloved and cherished there, that he had called me lassie—

I lifted my eyes to the kind honest gaze of Cuthbert Vane. It was as faithful as Crusoe's and no more embarrassing. A great impulse of affection moved me. I was near putting out a hand to pat his splendid head. Oh, how easy, comfortable and calm would be a life with Cuthbert Vane? I wasn't thinking about the title now—Cuthbert would be quite worth while for himself. For a moment I almost saw with Aunt Jane's eyes. Fancy trotting him out before the girls! stole insidiously into my mind. How much more dazzling than a plain Scotch squire—

I turned in bitterness and yearning from the silent figure by the fire.

I think in an earlier lifetime I must have been a huntress and loved to pursue the game that fled.

CHAPTER XI.

The Island Queen's Freight.

I woke next morning with a great thrill of exhilaration. Perhaps before the sun went down again I should know the secret of the island.

The two divisions of our party, which were designated by me privately the Land and Sea Forces, went their separate ways directly after breakfast, which we ate in the cool of earliest morning. I could retire to the perusal of the journal which I had recovered from the wrecked sloop without fear of interruption.

I resumed my reading with the entry of February 10.

"This morning, having grown very tired of fish, of which I get plenty every time I go out in the boat, by dragging a line behind, I decided to stay ashore and hunt pig. I set out across the base of the point, nearly due south—whereas I had been working along the coast to the north of the cove. I reached the edge of the cliffs and found that on my right hand the mountain dropped in a sheer precipice from hundreds of feet above me straight into the sea. I considered, and made up my mind that by striking back some distance one might by a very rough climb gain the top of the precipice, and so swing around the shoulder of the mountain. I did not feel inclined to attempt it. The cliffs at this point offered no means of descent, and the few yards of sand which the receding tide had left bare at their foot led nowhere.

"I turned to go back, and at that moment I heard an outcry in the bushes and Benjy came tearing out at the heels of a fine young porker. I threw up my gun to fire, but the evolutions of Benjy and the pig were such that I was as likely to hit one as the other. The pig, of course, made desperate efforts to escape from the cul-de-sac in which he found himself. His only hope was to get back into the woods on the point. Benjy kept him headed off successfully, and I began to edge up, watching my chance for a shot. Suddenly the pig came dashing straight toward me—oblivious, I suppose, to everything but the white snapping terror at his heels. Taken by surprise, I fired—and missed. The pig shot between my knees, Benjy after him. I withstood the shock of the pig, but not of Benjy. I fell, clawing wildly, into a matted mass of creepers that covered the ground beside me.

"I got to my feet quickly, dragging the whole mass of vines up with me. Then I saw that they had covered a curiously regular little patch of ground, outlined at intervals with small stones. At one end was a larger stone.

"The patch was narrow, about six feet long—instantly suggestive of a grave. But swift beyond all process of reason was the certainty that flashed into my mind. I fell on my knees beside the stone and pulled away the torn vine-tendrils. I saw the letters B. H. and an attempt at cross-bones rudely cut into the surface of the stone.

"I closed my eyes and tried to steady myself. I thought, 'I am seeing things. This is the mere projection of the vision which has been in my mind so long.'

"I opened my eyes, and lo, the fantasy, if fantasy it were, remained. I smote with my fist upon the stone. The stone was solid—it bruised the flesh. And as I saw the blood run, I screamed aloud like a madman, 'It's real, real, real!'

"Under the stone lay the guardian of the treasure of the Bonny Lass—And his secret was within my grasp. 'I don't know how long I crouched beside the stone, as drunk with joy as any hasheesh toper with his drug. I roused at last to find Benjy at my shoulder, thrusting his cool nose against my feverish cheek. I suppose he didn't understand my ignoring him so, or thought I scorned him for losing out in his race with the pig. Yet when I think of what I owe that pig I could swear never to taste pork again.

"Brought back to earth and sanity, I rose and began to consider my surroundings. Somewhere close at hand was the mouth of the cave—but where? The cliffs, as I have already said, were too steep for descent. Nothing but a fly could have crawled down them. I turned to the craggy face of the mountain. There, surely, must be the entrance to the cave! For hours I clambered among the rocks, risking mangled limbs and sunstroke—and found no cave. I came back at last, wearily, to the grave. There lay the dust of the brain that had known all—and a wild impulse came to me to tear away the earth with my bare hands, to dig deep, deep—and then with listening ear wait for a whispered word.

"I put the delirious fancy from me and moved away to the edge of the cliffs. Looking down, I saw a narrow sloping shelf which dropped from the brink to a distance of ten or twelve feet below, where it met a slight projection of the rock. I had seen it before, of course, but it had carried no significance for my mind. Now I stepped down upon the ledge and followed it to its end in the angle of the rock.

"Snugly hidden in the angle was a low doorway leading into blackness.

"Now, of course I ought in prudence to have gone back to the hut and got matches and a lantern and a rope before I set foot in the darkness of that unknown place. But what had I to do today with prudence—Fortune had me by the hand! In I went boldly, Benjy at my heels. The passage turned sharply, and for a little way we walked in blackness. Then it veered again, and a faint and far-off light seemed to filter its way to us through a web woven of the very stuff of night. The floor sloped a little downward. I felt my way with my feet, and came to a step—another. I was going along a descending passage, cut at its steepest into rough, irregular stairs. With either hand I could touch the walls. All the while the light grew clearer. Presently, by another sharp turn, I found myself in a cave, some thirty feet in depth by eighteen across, with an opening on the narrow strip of beach I had seen from the top of the cliffs.

"The roof is high, with an effect of Gothic arches. Near the mouth is a tiny spring of ice-cold water, which has worn a clean rock channel for itself to the sea. Otherwise the cave is perfectly dry. There is no doubt in my mind that in the great buccannery days of the Seventeenth century, and probably much later, the place was the haunt of pirates. One fancies that Captain Sampson of the Bonny Lass may have known of it before he brought the treasure to the island. There were queer folk to be met with in those days in the western ocean. Yes, the cave has seen many a fierce, sea-tanned face and tarry pigtail, and echoed to strange oaths and wild sea-songs. Men had carved those steps in the passage—thirty-two of them. In the sand of the floor, as I kicked it up with my feet, hoping rather childishly to strike the corner of the chest, I found the hilt and part of the blade of a rusty cutlass, and a chased silver shoe-buckle. I shall take the buckle home to Helen—and yet how trivial it will seem, with all else that I have to offer her! Nevertheless she will prize it as my gift, and because it comes from the place to which some kind angel led me for her sake.

"I left the cave and hurried back to the cabin for a spade, walking on air, breaking with snatches of song the terrible stillness of the woods, where one hears only the high fitful sighing of the wind, or the eternal mutter of the sea.

"Back in the cave, I set to work feverishly, making the light sand fly. At the end of half an hour, at a point close to the angle of the wall my spade struck a hard surface. It lay, I should judge, under about two feet of sand. Soon I had laid bare a patch of dark wood which rang under my knuckles almost like iron. A little more, and I had cleared away the sand from the top of a large chest with a convex lid, heavily bound in brass.

"Furiously I flung the sand aside until the chest stood free for half its depth—which is roughly three feet. It has handles at the ends, great hand-wrought loops of metal. I tugged my hardest, but the chest seemed fast in its place as the native rock. I laughed exultantly. The weight meant gold—gold! I had hammer and chisel with me, and with these I forced the massive ancient locks. There were three of them, one for each strip of brass which bound the chest. Then I flung up the lid.

"No glittering treasure dazzled me. I saw only a surface of stained canvas, tucked in carefully around the edges. This I tore off and flung aside—eclipsing poor Benjy, who was a most interested spectator of my strange proceedings. Still no gleam of gold, merely demure rows of plump brown bags. With both hands I reached for them. Oh, to grasp them all! I had to be content with two, because they were so heavy, so blessedly heavy!

"I spread the square of canvas on the sand, cut the strings from the bags and poured out—gold, gold! All fair shining golden coins they were, not a paltry silver piece among them! And they made a soft golden music as they fell in a glorious yellow heap.

"I don't know how long I sat there, playing with my gold, running it through my fingers, clinking the coins together in my palm. Benjy came and sniffed at them indifferently, unable to understand his master's preoccupation. He thrust his nose into my face and barked, and said as clearly as with words, 'Come, hunt pig!'

"Benjy, I said, 'we'll leave the pork alone just now. We have work enough to count our money. We're rich, old boy, rich, rich!'

"Of course, I don't yet know exactly what the value of the treasure is. I have counted the bags in the chest; there are one hundred and forty-eight. Each, so far as I have determined, contains one thousand doubloons, which makes a total of one hundred and forty-eight thousand. Estimating each coin, for the sake of even figures, at a value of seven dollars—a safe minimum—you get one million, thirty-six thousand dollars. And as many of the coins are ancient I ought to reap a harvest from collectors.

"Besides the coin, I found, rather surprisingly, laid between the upper layers of bags, a silver crucifix about nine inches long. It is of very quaint old workmanship, and badly tarnished. Its money value must be very trifling, compared to the same bulk of golden coins. I think it must have had some special character of sacredness which led to its preservation here. It is strange to find such a relic among a treasure so stained by blood and crime.

Scraps of Humor

WISE PRECAUTION

He had been told that to toughen his hands and feet he should soak them in a tub of salt water.

One morning a friend happened to drop in while the boy was engaged in this interesting process.

"Billy," said he, after he had duly explained the thing to his wondering companion. "I'm pretty near due for a licking, and tomorrow I'm going to sit down in it."

Very Obstinate.

"Well," said the doctor, inquiring of the old Irish servant, "is your master any better?"

"Nary a bit and as obstinate as a mule."

"What is he obstinate about?"

"You said he was to take a black draught. Never a one all black could we find in the house, but when I wanted him to swallow the double six of the dominoes he abused me terribly!" —Scotsman.

A Prompted Prevarication.

A little fellow scored neatly on his mother the other day. "I hope, dear," she said, "you were a nice little boy while you were at Mrs. Brown's and didn't tell any stories."

"Only the one you put me up to," said her young hopeful.

"Why, what do you mean, child?"

"When she asked me if I'd like to have another piece of cake, I said, 'No, thank you, I've had enough.'"

COULDN'T EXPECT MORE

"That fortune teller told me I was to come into a fortune of $5,000."

"Is that all?"

"Well, I only gave her a quarter."

Tempest Tossed.

A sailor's life is bound to be
A life of stress and fury,
It is tempestuous on the sea
And worse in the grand jury.

Appreciation.

"Were you ever misquoted in an interview?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum.

"Did you denounce the interviewer?"

"No. Some of the remarks he unauthoritatively attributed to me made such a hit that I thanked him and told him to call on me for any influence I could command."

A Painful Spectacle.

"Why are these women leaping about in the air?"

"They are practicing aesthetic dancing to reduce their figures."

"They are all fat."

"Yes. When aestheticism tips the scales at 200 pounds there's nothing sadder in life."

Then He Fleed.

Nerveigh—Miss Roxley, I adore you, will you not be my wife?

Miss Roxley (haughtily)—The idea of your proposing to a girl of my class—you should know better.

Nerveigh—I do know better, but they haven't half your money.

A Hard One.

The mathematical marvel was presenting his turn on the vaudeville stage. "Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "if I fail to give the correct answer to any problem you offer me, I agree to forfeit $50."

Voice in audience—Make the date of my wife's birth agree with her present age.

A Wicked World.

"The man who is accused by his wife says he merely wished to 'adopt' the beautiful young person."

"A likely story!"

"Quite. And his claim isn't strengthened by the fact that the beautiful young person has been heard to call him 'daddy.'"

Glorious Hereafter.

"And think," said the good man, "when you go to heaven you'll have a crown and a harp and wings. Won't that be glorious?"

"Yes," the little girl replied, "but mamma says she won't be satisfied unless she can have slender ankles and speak French when she gets to heaven."

The Past Tense.

Edith—When it comes to marrying, I wouldn't give a thought to how much a man was making.

Maud—Neither would I, dear. What would primarily interest me would be how much he had already made. There's no use taking chances.

Good Job.

Visitor—Well, Tommy, what are you going to be when you grow up?

Tommy—I think I'll be a philanthropist. Philanthropists always seem to be well off.

NURSE FOG

"Come, my dear little ones," said Nurse Fog, "and I will tell you a story."

The Mist grandchildren gathered about Nurse Fog and said, "We want to hear your story."

Some of the Raindrop children came too, but every single Mist grandchild was on hand to hear the story.

"I wear a heavy dress of mist and fog," said Nurse Fog, "as I don't want creatures to see about when I come around. The reason for that is that when I come about I like to have everything my own way.

"And it is right that I should, for the King of the Clouds has told me so.

"What is more, Mr. Sun has told me so too. He doesn't even want to be around when I am.

"He has told me ever and ever so many times that when I wanted to tell a story to the Mist grandchildren he was perfectly willing to keep out of the way, for he knew that if he got in the way he would interrupt my story.

"I must tell you, too, of some of our friends, the Clouds. Now the gray clouds that look so thick and powerful are clouds which belong to the family of the King of the Clouds and Sir Robert Rain.

"When any one sees them in the sky they may know that there is going to be rain.

"They all gather together and talk things over and that is when creatures see gray clouds close together which look as though there were many of them talking.

"They're talking. Oh yes, they're talking. They're talking of the jump they're going to make to the earth. And all of them are talking about when they'll jump and how many of them will jump and just what sorts of jumps they will make.

"They very seldom have a long talk and change their minds. No, they don't do that.

"There are the clouds which belong to the family of Old Man Wind. They're a silly lot. They wear black suits and they look as though they were going to do something quite exciting and dreadful and then they usually don't do anything at all.

"That is, they do something but they don't rain. And rain is the most important thing. It is to our family, at any rate.

"The clouds which belong to the family of Old Man Wind look, as I have told you, as if they were going to have a wild and rough frolic.

"They begin all right. They bang things about and blow the Dust Brothers wherever they want them to go.

"They make chairs on porches upset—I mean the chairs upset and not the porches!

"They knock over things and raise a great old row and then they stop.

"And the rain has never come all, and the people have been expecting it.

"Of course they think they're great clouds for joking and they have written a Book of Jokes. Every joke has been one they've made up and acted upon.

"They like to tell their jokes over and over and do the same thing time and time again.

"They're something like many creatures in that way.

"But they enjoy their jokes and as they are their own jokes it is just as well, for they're pleased with what they have.

"But when our family have a talk they act at once! They don't fool the people. They rain!

"Dear me, how silly it is to have jokes when one can wear a lovely rainy, misty dress and can hop, skip, jump and patter over the earth."

"Dear Nurse Fog," said the Mist grandchildren, "may we have a little game with the Army of Raindrops and the Raindrop children?"

"Indeed, yes," said Nurse Fog, "and I will watch the fun and will clap my foggy hands and will say in my deep, deep voice:

"Hurrah! Hurrah!"

Shaking Afterward.

When the nurse entered, her boy patient was in a furious fit of writhing convulsions. "What is the matter?" she cried anxiously.

"I forgot," replied the boy, "to shake the bottle before taking the medicine."

Not Impressed by Party.
A party of five on a motor trip visited some friends in Wisconsin. After meeting all the grown-up folks we were then introduced to Bobby by the following salutation: "Bobby, I want you to meet all the folks from Chicago."
Bobby scrutinized us carefully and then disappointedly replied: "Is that all the people they've got in Chicago?"

A Wider Culture.
When one sees millions of people thinking the same thoughts and reading the same books and perceiving that as the multitude grows, its influence becomes always stronger, it is hard to imagine how new points of repulsion and contrast are to arise, new diversities of sentiment and doctrine to be developed. Nevertheless, there is reason to believe that, as the intellectual proficiency and speculative play of mind which are now confined to a comparatively small class become more generally diffused, as the pressure of effort towards material success is relaxed, as the number of men devoted to science, art and learning increases, so will the dominance of what may be called the business mind decline, and with a richer variety of knowledge, tastes and pursuits, there will come also a larger crop of marked individualities, and of divergent intellectual types.—James Bryce.

THINGS TO KEEP FOR REFERENCE

The foundation sauce for all cream soups, scalloped dishes, souffles and croquettes may be kept in mind so that one will always have the right proportion for each dish.

When preparing cream soups or thin sauces the one-to-one proportion is used, one cupful of milk or other liquid and one tablespoonful each of butter and flour for the binding. This proportion is used for all soups, scalloped dishes, creamed dishes and almost all sauces used with meat, vegetables and puddings, where a thin sauce is liked.

These sauces are varied by different seasonings and flavors. A tablespoonful always means one filled and leveled with a spoon; a cupful is one-half pint and when buying measuring cups be sure you get a standard half-cup, for a cup may look all right and lack from two to four tablespoonfuls of the standard size.

The one-to-two sauce is the same proportion of liquid with two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together; it is the most used for scalloped and creamed dishes. The vegetables are cooked and the creamed sauce added. Scalloped dishes are prepared by using the same quantity of sauce and food, placing them in alternate layers in a baking pan and covering with bread crumbs well buttered by stirring them into melted butter. The dish is then browned in the oven.

The one-to-three sauce is prepared in the same way, using three tablespoonfuls of butter; when melted and bubbling hot the three tablespoonfuls of flour are stirred in, then the one cupful of milk or liquid added and cooked until well done. If this sauce is used for souffles, then whites of the eggs, using three, and equal portions of food and sauce are used; the egg yolks cooked in the sauce and the whites folded in at the last.

The foundation for croquettes is one-to-four, using the same amount of liquid and four tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter. This sauce is used with an equal measure of food and cooled. Then the mixture is shaped into any desired croquette form and fried in deep fat.

For meat sauces one may use the liquid from cooked vegetables like spinach, celery, green peas or tomato juice, flavoring with onion, garlic, bay leaf or spices.

For pudding sauces, fruit juices, canned fruit juice, water, milk, cream or melted jelly.

Life is not made out of money, and friendship, and talents, and patronage, and family influences, and good positions, and good health, and good nature, it is made out of faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, and brotherly kindness and love.—Innenger.

WHAT TO EAT

On the farm or where one has plenty of milk and cream there is little appreciation of cream except as a butter maker. There are so many delicious dishes which may be made from sweet cream, not forgetting the whipped cream cake which is the cake par excellence.

Cream Muffins.—Mix two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of sugar. Add the cupful of sweet cream, beat thoroughly and bake in muffin tins in a hot oven. One-half cupful of chopped dates may be added, if desired.

Cream Pastry.—For a covered pie take one and one-half cupfuls of flour mixed with a quarter of a teaspoonful each of salt and baking powder. Mix with sweet cream to make a mixture just stiff enough to roll.

Quick Griddle Cakes.—Stir a pinch of soda and one-half teaspoonful of salt into a cupful of sour cream. Add flour for a thick batter and beat until perfectly smooth. Thin with sweet skim milk to the desired consistency; it should be like good cream. Lastly stir in two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and bake at once on a hot griddle.

Cream Cookies.—Beat two eggs until very light, add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a little grated nutmeg. Stir in a cupful of thick cream, two cupfuls of flour, mixed with four teaspoonfuls of baking powder and enough flour added to roll. Roll one-quarter of an inch thick, sprinkle with sugar, cut in shapes and bake quickly.

Buttermilk Pie.—Take one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one egg, a pinch of salt, two cupfuls of buttermilk with flavoring to taste. Soften the butter, cream it with the sugar, add the flour and mix again, then put in the salt and an egg unbeaten. Beat these ingredients very light and add the buttermilk and flavoring. Cook the mixture until thick, then pour into a pastry shell previously baked.

$525 IN PRIZES FOR THE BEST RHYMES

A new contest is just being started which will interest every woman and girl who reads this paper. Any woman or girl can enter this Contest—anyone can win! All it is necessary to do is to write a 4-line rhyme on Dr. Price's Phosphate Baking Powder, using only the words which appear either on the label of the Dr. Price can (front and back) or on the printed slip which is found in each Dr. Price can.

Isn't that easy? Everyone likes to make rhymes and here is a chance to spend a fascinating hour or two writing rhymes on this popular Baking Powder and perhaps winning a substantial prize for your efforts.

59 CASH PRIZES
For the rhyme selected as best a prize of $100 will be given; for the second, third and fourth best rhymes prizes of $75, $50 and $25, respectively will be given. And besides these prizes there will be 55 prizes of $5 each for the next 55 best rhymes. With such a long list of prizes as these, it would be a pity not to try your hand at it!

Here is a 4-line rhyme as an example:

Two teaspoons of this powder make
Biscuits, muffins, pie or cake,
The Price's Co., guarantee
No alum in the cans to be.

As Dr. Price's Phosphate Baking Powder sells for only 25 cents a 12 oz. can at grocery stores, some rhymes could play up the remarkable economy of this pure and wholesome baking powder which contains no alum.

All rhymes must be received by May 1, 1922. Only words appearing either on the label of the Dr. Price can (front and back) or on the printed slip contained inside the can may be used. These words may be used as often as desired, but no other words will be allowed. If you haven't a can of Dr. Price's, a copy of the label and the printed slip will be sent to you free upon request.

Any woman or girl may enter the Contest, but only one rhyme from each person will be considered. In case of ties, the full amount of the prize will be given to each tying contestant. Write plainly on only one side of a sheet of paper and be sure to give your name and address.

Send your rhyme before May 1st to Price Baking Powder Factory, 1007 Independence Blvd., Chicago, Ill.—Advertisement.

MATTER OF GREATER MOMENT

Heckler's Query Concerning the Bolsheviks Surely Should Have Had Right of Way.

President Philip T. Dodge of the International Paper company, said at a reception in New York:

"Sentimental Socialism, the doctrine of Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells, used to be all the go, but we don't think quite so much of Sentimental Socialism today. We have found that the under dog, after all, isn't so very much better than the upper dog, and when the under dog gets on top—"

"Take the Bolsheviks, for instance. Wouldn't you rather be ruled over by President Harding or Lloyd George than by Lenin and Trotsky?"

"The Bolsheviks! A Bolshevik sympathizer was haranguing from a soap box the other afternoon."

"The Bolsheviks are our brothers," he yelled. "Our brothers, our Russian brothers, are starving. Who will give them their meals?"

"Who? Interrupted a heckler, 'will give them their deserts?'"

Men's right are conserved fairly well; it is their privileges that are taken away from them.

Joy in religion is but another word for genuineness.

BOTH BEAR THE GOODYEAR NAME

One of the tires shown above is the famous 30x3 1/2 inch Goodyear All-Weather Tread Clincher.

By long wear, superior traction and freedom from skidding, and low final cost, this tire has won unquestioned leadership in its field.

Alongside it is illustrated its companion, the 30 x 3 1/2 inch Goodyear Cross Rib.

Both these tires are built in a factory devoted exclusively to manufacturing Goodyear Tires for small cars.

More than 5,000,000 of the Goodyear non-skid tires have been sold in the last five years.

Built of the same high grade Egyptian cotton fabric that goes into the All-Weather Tread Goodyear, with a long-wearing but differently designed tread, they have given remarkable service.

Their quality and serviceability have proved to thousands of car owners the folly of buying unknown and unguaranteed tires of lower price.

APPLES MAY HAVE RIPENED!

But No One Was Unkind Enough to Question Young Matron About That Peculiar Pie.

The woman was week-ending at the suburban home of the Young Matron. Six or eight friends were having dinner with the couple.

For some months the proud bridegroom had been singing the praises of the Young Matron's experiences in the culinary art, particularly her pie-making ability.

"My husband insisted that I make an apple pie for you people, and I do hope it will be good," she explained. "The apples were a bit green and I am so afraid I did not put enough sugar in it."

When the much-discussed pastry appeared it looked promising indeed. The crust was flaky and browned to perfection, and the bridegroom's face bore an "I-told-you-so" expression. Sinking the knife deeply in it, the Young Matron lifted out a generous piece of (how the apples had ripened!) juicy, mince pie.—Chicago Journal.

It is just as dishonest to withhold deserved commendation as to withhold earned cash wages.

Economy is easy when you never have money enough.

It Was Embarrassing.
A handsome and wealthy young man from the East, visiting in the small town where my aunt lived as a girl, seemed interested in her and she was doing her best to outshine the other girls of the town.

With her hair done up in curlers and her stylish instep length skirt draped carefully to one side, she lay resting in the outdoor hammock one quiet summer day. Suddenly startled by the creaking of the gate and the unexpected appearance of the city lad, she overturned the hammock, which became wrapped about her knees and held her long legs straight up in the air. The young man, gallantly enough, rushed to her rescue; but she never saw him again.—Chicago Tribune.

Through Various Ways.
The Indian maiden trends softly in her moccasins; in Holland, it is wooden shoe; in Italy they may be barefoot; in Russia they wear boots; in France you see them in high-heeled slippers; in England they appear in common-sense heels with wide toes; in America it is first one style and then another; but, bless their dear hearts, they are charming howsoever you find them!—Judge.

When a man bows to the inevitable he is also in danger of sitting down and staying there.

The Boy Who Started to Town With a Hundred Dollars

The advice they gave him for getting on in the world was simple and familiar enough: "Keep what you have, and build on it. Be careful what you do and it will grow into more."

It's a safe rule—with money or health, but a good many overlook the rule with health, until they have lost what they had. Then it's hard to get a new supply.

Postum is a splendid help in saving health from the very common losses through the drug elements of tea and coffee—whose effects on the nervous system any doctor can tell you.

Thousands of people who think it wise to be as careful of their health as they are of their dollars are users of Postum. They find this famous cereal beverage a delightful drink with any meal, and it's free from any disturbing element.

You can begin with Postum today, with an order to your grocer. The road to health is a good road for anybody to follow. "Save what you have, and build on it," is sound policy for everybody.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

TINLEY PARK BULL FROGS RE-ORGANIZE

Tinley Park is going to have two baseball teams this year. The old Bull Frogs Base Ball team was re-organized Saturday night with Chas. Holstein as manager. This team will travel this summer as the Athletic Club has rented the local ball grounds. All the teams of neighboring towns will be played. Mr. Holstein has been manager of the Bull Frogs for some time and has been interested in local baseball for the past 11 years. The big feature of this team will be that it is to be composed entirely of home talent. Any team wishing to book a game with the Bull Frogs can do so by calling telephone, Tinley Park 44-1. The line-up is as follows: Goessel, catcher; W. Hollstein, pitcher; B. Rick, 1st base; H. Utie, 2d base; Johnson, short stop; C. P. Hollstein, 3d base; Bruening, left field; E. Keuch, center field; Brookman, right field.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

A large company of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoppman on Tuesday to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Hoppman. The usual good time is reported.

VILLAGE TREASURY IN GOOD CONDITION.

The annual report of Fred Goebel, village treasurer of Tinley Park, shows that the village treasury is in good condition, the report showing $3104.27 cash on hand.

J. C. Andres, cashier of the Bremen State Bank is planning to build a new home this summer.

Farmers in this section started their field work the past week. Edward Ryan and Carl Bornet were among the first ones to get in the field.

That building is beginning to revive throughout the country is evidenced by the orders which the local plant of the Ironite Co. is receiving for Ironite, a cement water-proofing compound.

Willard Fulton who located in Pennsylvania last fall has been in his section this week with a view of closing a deal to sell his property at Oak Forest. Mr. Fulton handled the Oak Forest Lighting plants while living at Oak Forest. He is engaged in the sale of stocks and bonds now.

The Easter dance held at Saenger Hall Monday night drew a record-breaking crowd.

The Athletic Club will hold a dance at this hall on April 29th. This is to be a moonlight and confetti dance.

The village election held Tuesday was a very quiet affair. There was no contest. Only 64 votes were cast. The following were elected: Edward Goessel, Wm. Siemsen, Wm. F. Koehler, for trustees. There was a slight contest at the last moment for the clerkship. Mr. Nielsen had not filed a petition for this office as he had just been elected to the office of town clerk. The space on the ticket was left blank. The names of Mr. Nielsen and Clyde Rice were written in. Mr. Rice received 22 votes and Mr. Nielsen 38 votes.

NEW LENOX TO HAVE POOL HALL

New Lenox is going to have an up to date pool room in the old Fellows' building. A barber shop is also going to be run in connection with this pool room. This is the first time in the history of New Lenox that a pool room will be run here.

The discontinuance of service by the Joliet and Eastern Traction Co. is not affecting New Lenox very much as the Rock Island is giving good suburban service while the bus line is operating through here.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church will give a home talent play, "Adventures of Grandpa," at Grange Hall Friday night.

Prof. Hewitt of Garret Biblical Institute of Evanston will preach at the M. E. church next Sunday morning. The Epworth League will be led next Sunday evening by Mrs. Lynn Warner. Miss Dorothy Herschbach of Frankfort will also speak. Following the meeting Rev. Dunbar will give a stereopticon lecture on "Centenary Success."

The Missionary Society met with Mrs. Wilbur Francis last Thursday. The members pledged to ship a case of fresh eggs to the Wesley hospital, Chicago.

Rings in Wood.

While all the trees of the temperate region and many of those from the tropics have growth rings, in not all cases are the contrasts in density and color great enough to show prominently in the finished material, says the American Forestry Magazine. Common examples are basswood, aspen, paper birch, tulip wood, holly, tupelo, buckeye, yellow cedars, and certain of the pines, firs and spruces.

FRANKFORT MEN MAY TAKE OVER TROLLEY LINE

Frankfort cannot get along very well without interurban service, as has been found since the interurban discontinued service, and the business men of Frankfort have begun a move this week to obtain control of the Joliet & Eastern traction line, which discontinued service between Joliet and Chicago Heights Saturday. It is said the Frankfort business men aim to pool the stock that can be bought and again place the line in operation. If the line cannot be operated thru to Chicago Heights, it will be operated as far as Matteson, and if proved too expensive, then Frankfort would be the terminal. One-man cars may be used.

A very impressive Easter service was conducted at the M. E. church. The Choral Society rendered the cantata: "The Risen King," and Rev. Dr. Horn a preacher of forty-one years' experience and at present member of the Garrett Biblical Institute faculty delivered a fine sermon on the text, "Who Shall Roll Away the Stone?" In the evening the Epworth League entertained at supper and devotion, the League of New Lenox, about thirty of whom visited Frankfort.

Sermons for the balance of the month at the Methodist church are as follows:

April 23d—"Whatsoever things are honorable."
April 30th—"The Adventure of Death."

On April 28th at 7:45 a special centenary meeting will be conducted at the M. E. church. The Revs. W. E. Kearn of Joliet and G. F. Courrier of Plainfield will be the speakers. All who are interested in the greatest church movement of the day are cordially invited.

Members of the Frankfort League who were at New Lenox Camp last summer are to visit various neighboring churches in Joliet and vicinity to boost the Institute Camp for this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Martin of Richards street, Joliet, visited Frankfort League week ago Sunday night.

The Home Improvement met at the home of Mrs. Theo. Miner on Thursday, April 20.

How Many Stars?

We think of the multitude of stars and would in all probability say that on a clear, frosty, moonless night we see millions of them. In reality, on such a night, if we leave out the faintly luminous Milky Way, we see fewer than 3,000 distinct stars. In the whole starry sphere, of which we see only half of any given time, there are only a score of first-magnitude stars, beginning with Sirius, the brightest of them, and including stars like Orion's right shoulder and left knee, Betelgeuse and Rigel, Vega and Arcturus.

Worth Man Hurt When Tractor Turns Turtle In Field

Clifford Tobey narrowly escaped serious injury Tuesday when using his tractor. While plowing it became stuck and while trying to work out the tractor turned turtle. The front end lifted off the ground rolling backward. Mr. Tobey in an effort to free himself jumped, but his foot was caught and was compelled to remain for about an hour with his foot pinioned underneath the overturned tractor until he received aid from some of his neighbors. Dr. Schussler of Oak Lawn who attended to his injured foot reported that the accident was not serious and that the foot was only badly bruised. Er. Rolfe and Kid Miller soon had the overturned tractor righted with the aid of one of Mr. Tobey's teams and towed same home as the steering apparatus and a few other minor parts were broken and badly bent.

Two young boys from Chicago about 15 years of age, were over taken with the wanderlust and were found roaming on the outskirts of the village with concealed weapons by Officer B. S. Crandall, who searched them and found one of the youngsters had a brand new 45 Smith and Western revolver and the other one with a 32 caliber revolver. He took the weapons away from the boys and threatened them with arrest if they did not return to home immediately which they promised to do.

Mayor H. P. Woods has issued a warning to all automobile owners to pay their vehicle tax in the near future or be subject to a fine as posted in the recent ordinance passed.

The annual village election was held Tuesday, April 18th. As there was only one complete ticket filed and no opposition for any of the offices, the election was very quiet. The following were elected: Joseph Kaufman, clerk, Fred Hildebrand, treasurer, L. P. Daniels, Henry Stewart and L. W. Craney, trustees.

Mrs. E. Stromberg entertained her daughter Mrs. S. Chapman and family and also her son Clarence of Blue Island on Easter Sunday. The Misses Mabel Johnson and Margaret Grace also were out for the day.

The choir of the Orland M. E. church will render an Easter cantata at the local Methodist church next Sunday evening, April 23 at 8 p. m. All are invited to enjoy this musical treat. Free will offering will be taken.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Kaufman and family spent Easter Sunday with her folks in Chicago.

"More and Better Stories!"

THAT was the idea we had when we started to make "Telling Tales" Magazine, and we have lived up to it.

Every month there are from a dozen to fifteen complete short stories by such writers as Octavus Roy Cohen, Achmed Abdullah, Henry Leverage, Thomas Edgell, Christine Whiting Parmenter, Katherine Metcalf Roof, Margaret Sangster, Harry Kemp and Robert W. Sneddon. All of these are regular contributors to America's leading short-story magazine.

But don't take our word for it. We want you to know "Telling Tales" for yourself, and as a special inducement we are making the following offer:

"Telling Tales" is regularly $5c. a copy—$3.00 a year, but to give you a chance to get acquainted with it, here's what we'll do. Send a quarter for one issue—the regular price—and we will send THREE copies instead of the one you paid for. This offer is for a limited time only. The post office won't allow us to make it indefinite. Act to-day. Send us 25c. coin or a money order, and receive 75c. worth of magazine.

$25,000 Orland School Meets Opposition

A very exciting school meeting was held Monday night in the high school room above the bank. Many extremely hot arguments were heard between taxpayers. Some were for, but the majority were against the erection of a new schoolhouse, to cost approximately $25,000. Although the plans have been made and work started on the basement, it is evident that some changes will be made before the building can be completed, as the majority of taxpayers seem to be highly in favor of W. R. Schussler's plan of erecting a school building that would cost somewhere about $14,000 or $15,000, and be ample for this district, and for which the district could afford to pay.

It is understood that another meeting is to be held soon, and Mr. Schussler purposes to have another architect present to compare plans and prices with those already in the hands of the school board, and it is hoped that some agreement can be reached so as not to delay operations on the new building.

A mistake was made in printing the report of the primary election in last week's News-Bulletin. Instead of W. R. Schussler receiving 127 votes, he received 107.

SECOND VERSION

The first meeting of the new school board was held last Monday evening. P. J. Wagner was elected president, and Thomas Wheeler clerk. About thirty interested people were present to discuss the contract for the new school building. Many favorable compliments were paid the old school board for their work.

Mrs. Wm. Cox said, "It is a fine enough building for Chicago." Dr. Schussler admitted that he "was in love with the site." He is in favor of adding the third and fourth years to the present two-year high school course. Some felt that the plan was too expensive for Orland, and did not see how $25,000 could be collected to pay for it. They were shown that this could easily be done within twelve years without raising taxes one cent.

Speaking of mathematicians, Orland has a storekeeper who figured in five minutes that it would take 81 years to pay for the school. Wonder what he could have done if given ten minutes?

Keene avenue has been partly closed on account of bridge construction.

Misses Margaret and Ida Schulz visited friends in Orland last Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Beagley was taken to the hospital Monday and operated on.

Mrs. I. M. Martin returned from a two years' visit in Buenos Aires, South America, Tuesday, April 11th. A dinner was given in her honor by her daughter, Mrs. Edward Innes of Englewood. Mrs. John Loebe and daughter Ruth, Stewart and Franklin Loebe were guests.

Miss Etta Martin, formerly of Orland, attended the wedding of Miss Hazel Bain to V. G. Grear of Hamilton, Ill., on Monday evening, April 10, 1922, at the Morrison hotel. Mr and Mrs Grear are to reside in Hamilton, Ill.

SELF SHARPENING LAWN MOWER

We don't mean that it sharpens its self while you are cutting the grass but it is so made that you can easily revolve the cutting reel backward and by the use of a little emery and oil sharpen it on your own lawn in five minutes and do a better job than you would get were you to take it to a regular lawn mower sharpener and besides you have saved all that expense and trouble. All adjustments on the Eclipse are easily made and with no danger of breaking the mower as so often happens with other makes.

Abundant vitamin now contained in small yeast tablet

Yeast Foam Tablets are from 4 to 5 times as concentrated as the ordinary baking yeast. The necessary vitamin potency, therefore, is contained in a much smaller dose.

"I CONGRATULATE YOU," writes a well-known physician, "on your new therapeutic yeast. I am sure it will be welcomed by the medical profession and by thousands of people who dislike eating such large quantities of fermentative baking yeast—as well as by countless others who sought in vain for any appreciable tonic benefits in many drug-laden and untested 'vitamin' preparation."

This yeast supplies what modern foods lack

Yeast Foam Tablets correct a serious deficiency in present day diet by supplying the essential vitamin which is found in many raw foods but which is completely eliminated, in many cases, by the time these same foods reach our table.

This vitamin is necessary to digestion and the conversion of foods into healthy tissue and bodily vigor.

Without sufficient quantity of vitamin your body goes sick and you are only too aware of it in such signs as loss of appetite, failing strength and endurance, nervousness, sallow skin and other definite signals of vitamin starvation.

Yeast richest source of vitamin

In the yeast plant is an abundant store of this indispensable vitamin and in Yeast

Foam Tablets there is nothing but pure whole yeast—millions of these tiny plants being concentrated in each tablet.

The vitamin potency of this new yeast is therefore high and, consequently, its tonic and reconstructive properties are most unusual.

Yeast Foam Tablets are made by the world's largest manufacturers of dry yeast, the makers for 45 years of the famous baking yeasts, Yeast Foam and Magic Yeast.

They are the result of two years of experiment conducted under the guidance of some of the country's leading medical scientists. Recommended by physicians and sold by druggists everywhere.

Extraordinary advantages of Yeast Foam Tablets

The only pure, whole yeast in easy-to-take tablet form.

They contain no drugs or other ingredients. They do not form gas nor cause belching.

They are the only pure, whole yeast suitable for children; they do not cause fermentation.

Each lot is tested to insure high and uniform vitamin potency.

Ancient Fortifications.

The explorers who attempted to scale Mount Everest discovered among other things, several ancient fortifications built in unexpected places in the high Tibetan mountain valleys, 15,000 feet above sea level. Partly to protect the fields from being washed away by mountain freshets and partly to guard against raids by enemy tribes, walls 20 feet high and often more than a mile long, guarded by strange round watch towers, were constructed at intervals at the head of these fertile valleys.

Original "Rivals."

A rival was originally any person who used the same stream. As experience shows, there is no such fruitful source of contention as a water-right. Neighbors would be often at strife with one another in regard of the period during which they severally had a right to the use of the stream; turning it off into their own fields before the time; leaving open the sluices beyond the time; or in other ways interfering with the rights of each other. So it was that "rivals" came to be applied to any who were in competition with one another.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

KEEP ON HIGH ROAD

IN A recent newspaper interview, Charles M. Schwab, one of the notable leaders in the steel industry in which he began as a boy of seventeen, forty-one years ago, said, "I would rather lose money month after month in my plant than make it by any but the highest methods in the world."

Mr. Schwab went to work to learn the business and he learned it thoroughly by mastering every detail as he proceeded, scorned a tired back and soiled hands.

He credits his rise to loyalty to his employer and states that success came from constant application to the subject in view.

Here in a few simple words, for those who will take time to read, will be found the formula for the attainment of success.

And here too is embodied the rule which every person must accept as his own,—a hard and fast law as that of the Medes and Persians, unfailing in results and bounteous in reward.

Let the indifferent young man and woman, inclined to grumble and shirk duty, ponder the wonderful meaning of "highest methods," and "loyalty to employer."

The five words may be likened to hinges upon which the great door of success swings wide open at the unrelenting push of the hand and brain that refuse to be denied entrance.

The Friendly Path

By Walter L. Robinson

TOO MUCH PROFANITY

TOO often cussing is taken as a matter of course. Men in high positions are frequently expert in the use of profane words, and the influence of bad language has a bad effect on both the old and the young.

Much effort is being made to increase the use of better English, and along with this propaganda it would be well to preach considerable against the use of bad language.

Directly cussing, unless the name of the Master is taken in vain, may cause no great damage. But indirectly it does much harm. When the little folk hear their parents swearing, their respect for their elders is either lessened or else the youngsters begin using it themselves as a matter of course. Not infrequently we hear little shavers, hardly able to speak plainly, using language which would put many men and women to shame.

Pike county, Kentucky, recently honored the memory of its oldest citizen, Jesse B. Osborne. Much was said in praise of this departed citizen, who crossed the bar at the age of ninety-two years, and no louder praise was heard than of his reputation for never having permitted a profane word to pass from his lips.

Judging from this event, one might assume that profanity is the rule rather than the exception. If this is the case, isn't it about time to call a halt? The old remedy, considered quite effective for curing profane habits, was to wash the boy's mouth with soap. But, from our observation, we are inclined to believe that it would be unfair to use such a remedy to stop youths from

Whenever you go to work in sombre days, remember that there is within you a force, which, if properly applied, will enable you to open this same door and take your place among the leaders. And this force must be called up by you alone.

Nobody else can do it for you.

Have faith in yourself. Have no fear, for fear is the rock on which humans fall and go tumbling into the valley of despair.

No man or woman with fear in the heart is capable of clear discernment, sure judgment or superior accomplishment.

Keep your mind on the great and splendid achievements of others, and those you want to do yourself. Be loyal and hold steadfastly to highest methods.

Preserve an attitude of courage, courteousness and good cheer.

Avoid the malcontents, the grumblers, the sulkers and shirkers, the makers of wry faces and the provokers of quarrels.

Keep on the high road and in the sunshine.

Move straight in the right direction and some morning you will find that success and honor are speeding towards you with open arms.

THE OPEN SEASON

APRIL now, and I must take Rod and reel and hunt a lake; Tramp the shore light-hearted, glad; Cast out 'neath some lilypad. Fill my lungs with clean ozone, Lift my voice in lusty tone; Watch the white clouds sailing high 'Cross the blue of April's sky.

April now, my desk is clean; Trees and grass are showing green; Tang of springtime in the air—Good-by, now, old office chair! Off I lay life's weary load And go tramping down the road—Down the road between the trees, Drinking deep the April breeze.

April now, and field and stream Bathed in April's golden gleam Bid me up and haste away Where the sunbeams dance and play. Out from dusty, dreary mart, Close to Mother Nature's heart, Out where springtime wakes anew 'Neath the April sky of blue.

April now, and songbirds wake Echoes from each bough and brake. Green the grass beneath my feet, Flowers spread their odors sweet; Out across the field and fen, Onward through the woodland glen, Where the long black furrows lie 'Neath the sheen of April's sky.

cussing. The cause too frequently rests with the parents who worry and complain because their offspring are devilish and almost beyond their control. A general mouth-washing of the elders probably would have greater effect.

Profane language is not beautiful. It does no good. It may be the stepping-stone to lives of crime which end in prison cells. For once the bars are lowered against small wrongs, the bigger wrongs are certain to be lurking near and crawl into one's life.

Less profanity would add to the joy of the world.

Uncommon Sense . . .

BY-PRODUCTS

THE Standard Oil company has found a way to utilize all the residue from the distillation of petroleum. Gasoline, now one of the chief products of the concern was once a by-product. All the coal tar derivatives, from which many drugs and medicines are made, are by-products. So are paraffin, candles, and hundreds of other articles in every day use.

The Standard Oil company is a big concern. It has thousands of technically trained experts at work for it. It has plants all over the world—the biggest plants of the kind in existence.

Such an institution can well afford to go into the business of making by-products, and to expend a part of its almost limitless energies in getting all that is possible out of the crude oil which flows from its wells.

But the business of developing by-products is for a corporation, and a big one—not for an individual.

You may fancy that you can throw off by-products easily as you do your daily work. You may believe, if you are a bookkeeper that by spending a few nights writing moving picture scenarios you will be able to utilize all your brains, instead of part of them. If you are a young professional man, with little to do, you may imagine that you can take up novel writing, or acting, or bridge playing as a side line, and thus get rich while you are waiting for success in your profession.

It is possible that you will get rich at one or the other of these things. But if you do, it will be because you have dropped your profession and devoted yourself to the by-product.

Anthony Hope, who wrote "The Prisoner of Zenda" was trained as a barrister, but he had no briefs, and wrote stories to while away the hours he was waiting for clients. He succeeded as a novelist, because he was born to write, but he stopped being a lawyer as soon as his first book was published.

In this world a man can learn to do one thing fairly well. The time he has is better spent on that one thing. Begin to scout around for by-products of your brain, and you will soon so scatter your energies that you do nothing well.

If you want to write "movie" scenarios, write 'em, but don't try to keep a set of books at the same time. It can't be done. The expert accountants who are making big wages today were all satisfied to spend all their spare time learning how to keep books better.

ILLINOIS State News

The report of the Visiting Nurse association of Evanston shows the work of the visiting nurse is now so well systematized that no sick person in Evanston need go without expert attention for more than a few hours.

Eleven-cent milk for Chicago is now a reality, according to an announcement made by the secretary of the council committee on living costs. This is a penny cheaper than the long established price set by the dealers. As a result of more than three months' effort 60 cash-and-carry groceries began selling milk at the reduced price a few days ago.

The annual Illinois state stock judging contest, for which any resident of Illinois under the age of twenty-five years is eligible, is to be held at the University of Illinois stock pavilion on Saturday, April 22, it was announced at Urbana. Prizes will be given to the winners in this contest by the Hoof and Horn club, a student organization.

Announcement was received at Springfield of the appointment by President Harding of Frank S. Dickson, former adjutant general of Illinois, to be assistant treasurer of the United States Shipping board and Emergency Fleet corporation. General Dickson was recently succeeded as adjutant general of Illinois by Carlos E. Black of Chicago, after 14 years as head of the Illinois National Guard.

Percy B. Coffin of Chicago, chairman of the Illinois tax commission, in a statement said that Cook county is the worst offender in failing to turn in just valuation on personal property. The statement was made in connection with a letter sent by the commission to William H. Weber of the Cook county board of assessors urging a more equitable assessment of personal property. Copies of the letter were sent also to the taxing officials of all counties of the state.

With the coal strike in its third week, a survey of the state indicates that the larger public utility companies generally are well supplied with coal, although the small independent companies were expected to suffer, should the strike continue for a long period. Two hundred towns supplied by the Central Illinois Public Service company have an average of 90 days' supply on hand, and the vice president of that concern stated that other large companies were similarly situated. These towns are connected by transmission line, and so are not dependent upon coal for light.

Six million dollars' Illinois highway bonds were sold for $5,932,500. There were 42 companies bidding and 104 bids made. The award was at 98.87%, a decided advance over the sale of the first $5,000,000, which went for 94.02 last October. The easing of the money market since last autumn and the consequent lowering of the yield on new issues of high-grade bonds is reflected in the sale, which was on a yield basis of 4.11 per cent compared with 4.85 per cent on the previous sale of the highway bonds. The two issues, totaling $11,000,000, constitute virtually the state's only funded debt.

Contagious diseases are decreasing in Illinois, according to the health report forwarded to Washington. A majority of the cases under quarantine are at Chicago. The detailed report follows: Diphtheria, 206, of which Chicago had 119; Blue Island, 6; Cicero, 5. Scarlet fever, 204, of which Chicago has 103; Robinson, 9; Marion, 5. Smallpox, 25, of which Chicago had 2; Peoria, 4; Pekin, 6; Marion, 3. Typhoid fever, 6. Epidemic meningitis, Chicago, 3; Peoria, 1. St. Charles, 1. Lethargic encephalitis, Chicago, 1. Poliomyelitis, Chicago, 1. Pneumonia, 386, of which Chicago has 280. Influenza, 123, of which Chicago had 42.

Engineers, pumpmen, firemen and all other men necessary to the protection of mining property are instructed to remain at their posts as long as coal operators do not violate the terms of agreement between miners and operators, according to a bulletin sent out by Frank Farrington, president of District No. 12, United Mine Workers of America, to officers and members of the order in this state. Rules made by the district executive board in regard to this work are explained in the bulletin. Coal companies shall be allowed to have all the men they require to do repair and extension work, the district executive board has decided, provided the operators agree to pay the wages specified in the agreement terminating March 31, and do not mine coal for sale. A violation of the rules at one mine will warrant the withdrawal of miners from other mines operated by the same company, the bulletin says.

The board of health at Urbana has adopted and published rules for the promotion of health and the prevention of disease in that city. The Illinois river at Beardstown was 18 miles wide a few days ago. It stretched from "bluff to bluff" and the entire "bottoms" were under water. The levees on either side of the river all through the Beardstown district, that includes most of the fishing and duck shooting clubs owned by Chicago, Indianapolis and St. Louis sportsmen, broke, and the clubhouses were isolated.

Vehicle traffic is to be taken care of over the Illinois river at Meredosia by way of the Wabash railway bridge. A minor branch crosses the river, but only two trains use the structure each 24 hours. It has been decided to plank the structure, erect safety gates and permit its use for all kinds of traffic.

Discovering a den of wolves on his farm, William Englekes of Oregon lay in wait, killed the male head of the den and then captured a litter of ten little wolves. He collected a bounty of $10 a head on each of the animals. During the last three years Englekes has killed and collected bounty on 33 wolves.

A prediction that unemployment would be eliminated in 60 days was made by Charles J. Boyd, general superintendent of the Illinois free employment office of Chicago, in an address at a meeting of unemployment officers of the state at East St. Louis a few days ago. Boyd said that wages of laborers also would be raised.

Thousands of dollars are wasted annually by improper tree planting, says a bulletin from the Illinois State Nurserymen's association. "You cannot expect trees to grow when improperly planted," says the bulletin. "Make big holes; do not plant too deep; cover all roots; pack earth tight about the roots; cut the top back severely. Plant carefully and expect your tree to live; plant carelessly and your tree usually will die."

All of the wool pooled by organized farmers in the state last year, with the exception of 80,000 pounds which was received in late shipments, has been sold, it was announced at headquarters of the Illinois Agricultural association in Chicago. The entire wool pool amounted to 779,000 pounds, in which 3,161 growers in 89 counties took part. This netted the growers a total of $113,064, representing an average net price per pound to the grower of 16.2 cents.

An improvement in the industrial situation in Illinois, including a decrease in unemployment despite the regular seasonal depression in certain industries, is indicated in the April report of the employment bureau of the general advisory board of the Illinois department of labor. Reports from 925 firms in a wide range of industries show an increase of 1.6 per cent in the number of employees. The excess of workers seeking jobs at the Illinois free employment bureau offices was reduced in 12 of the 13 cities in which offices are maintained.

Filing of doctors who fail to record births is continuing in the state, in furtherance of the campaign started several weeks ago by the state department of public health to bring the birth statistics up to the standard required for admittance into the United States birth registration area. Several doctors have had to pay fines recently for neglecting to report births, the department says. In each case the complaint was brought by state's attorneys at the request of field agents of the state health department. Several other prosecutions for the same offense are pending.

Corn is still king in Sangamon county. In the Illinois crop report, put out by the department of agriculture for 1921, the production of this staple crop in the county is listed at 6,300,064 bushels, valued at harvesting time last fall at $3,150,032. This is three times the value of the oat or the hay crop, according to the report. The value of the six principal crops of the county, corn, wheat, oats, rye, hay and potatoes at harvesting time last year, is estimated at $6,576,328. The valuation is made by taking the market value of these crops at harvesting time from a list of the Sangamon county farm bureau.

Y-bridges proposed for Cairo by the Tri-State Bridge and Highway association of southern Illinois, western Kentucky and southeastern Missouri "would afford passage across the Mississippi and Ohio rivers for 16 highways," according to W. W. Beach, an engineer connected with the project. The 16 highways mentioned by Mr. Beach are the Atlantic-Pacific highway, Custer Battlefield highway, Dixie highway, Egyptian trail, Glacier trail, George Washington National highway, International Peace highway, Illinois Route No. 1, King of Trails, Lone Star route, Mississippi River Scenic highway, Ozark Trails, Pershing Way, Southern National highway and the Wonderland Way.

Winter wheat and rye is reported in favorable spring condition in the April report of the state federal crop reporting service for Illinois. Farm labor is plentiful, the report says. Reports on the condition of winter wheat from correspondents are mostly favorable, with many counties in the central portion of the state reporting a near normal condition. The crop was sown later than usual last fall to avoid fly damage but planting was followed by beneficial rains over most of the state, giving the crop a very promising start before winter set in. Rye came through the winter with moderate abandonment and, with few exceptions, shows a thrifty spring condition.

Aroused by bootlegging and the illicit sale of intoxicating liquor, the Citizens' league of Lincoln adopted resolutions demanding the enforcement of the law and the arrest and punishment of all guilty of its violation.

The Joliet & Eastern Traction company, operating an electric line between Joliet and Chicago Heights, has discontinued service. Permission to discontinue traffic and "junk" the property was given by the Illinois commerce commission when it was shown that the road could not meet operating expenses.

SURE TO HELP SICK WOMEN

Mrs. Baker, So Much Benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Anxious to Help Others

Lebanon, Indiana.—"I was completely run down from women's troubles and stomach trouble and for a long time was hardly able to do my work. I had some friends who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they told me about it. I know what it has done for me and I recommend it to others, as I am sure it will be a great help to all sick women. It is a wonderful medicine, and I give you permission to use my testimonial and my photograph."—Mrs. EMMA BAKER, 310 S. East St., Lebanon, Indiana.

These letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ought to convince women of the great worth of this medicine in the treatment of ailments to which they are often subject. Mrs. Baker calls it "a wonderful medicine." If you are suffering from troubles women often have, or feel all run down, without any ambition or energy for your regular work, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a natural restorative and should help you as it has Mrs. Baker and many, many other women.

Is Backache Crippling You?

Is that dull, nagging backache making it hard for you to get around? Are you lame, sore and tortured with sharp, rheumatic pains? It's time, then, you gave some attention to your kidneys! A persistent backache is often Nature's first signal of kidney weakness. You may have headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities, too. Kidney troubles, if treated early, are usually easily corrected. Begin now with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

An Illinois Case

R. T. Cummins, painter for J. C. R. R., Effingham, Ill., says: "A sharp shooting pain caught me in the small of my back every time I stooped. I easily became tired and would feel languid and all out of sorts. I got so my work became a burden and I would go home at night feeling as if I had been run over. I used Doan's Kidney Pills for this trouble and they surely did the work, curing me. I haven't been bothered with backache since."

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

SCOUT USES HIS FIRST AID

While engaged in playing football on the common near the Homewood Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, a small boy named Joseph Dunlap, was thrown forcibly against a broken bottle, the contact severing an artery in his ankle. Twelve-year-old Randolph L. Martin, a tenderfoot scout who aspires soon to be in second-class ranks, was happily on the spot. It was only a few days before that he had qualified in his first aid test, but he knew his job. Rapidly he made a tourniquet out of his suspender and applied it accurately, closing the artery which had been bleeding so profusely. The injured lad would soon have bled to death without instant treatment. A stretcher was improvised from some of the other boys' coats, under young Martin's direction, and the victim carried to the office of the nearest physician, Dr. C. J. Yorty. On examining the treatment Doctor Yorty was amazed to learn that a twelve-year-old boy could perform so grave a task so perfectly. He sat down at once and wrote a letter to scout headquarters detailing the incident and emphasizing his admiration for a movement which could give boys such training.

The action of Scout Martin is said to have given scouting a tremendous boost locally, particularly among the parents of boys. The hero of the incident is a member of Troop 63 of the Second Pittsburgh district in charge of Scoutmaster R. E. Baker, who takes special pride in his troop's first-aid proficiency.

CONNECTICUT SCOUTS BUSY

Scouts of New Britain, Conn., have done noteworthy civic service during the past year aiding in various ways the American Red Cross, the American Legion, the local safety first committee, Parents and Teachers' association, public health service, G. A. R., chamber of commerce, municipal dental clinic, the hospital drive, Anti-Tuberculosis society, Rotary club, Near East Relief, Connecticut Sunday School convention, etc. A play was given to earn money to send to the Pueblo relief fund and twice the Court of Honor in Walnut Hill park has been cleaned up by scouts who replaced defaced name plates and removed dead wreaths and flowers. Life saving methods as taught in the scout summer camp enabled one scout to save the lives of two boys.

SCOUTS LAY TRAIL

One of the tasks being carried out by the scouts of Manhattan and vicinity is the laying of a trail which, when completed, will encircle the whole Kanowahke lake district in the Palisades, which contains the great boy scout reservation. The whole distance of some fifty miles has been "pioneered" and temporary trail marks established. Six miles have been completed and equipped with permanent markers.

FORMER BOY SCOUT LOST

Frank Fischer, a former boy scout, has not been heard from by his anxious parents since August, 1921, when he was at Camp Gretna, near Lebanon, Pa. The Salvation Army and the Boy Scouts of America are both endeavoring to find the boy, particularly as his mother is ill from worrying over his absence. He is sixteen years of age and is of Hungarian birth.

GOOD TURNS OF BOY SCOUTS

The mother of a scout fell ill. Her son immediately canceled every engagement and spent all his time outside of school and when he was not doing family errands, at the mother's side, reading aloud and generally helping her to pass a tedious period of illness as pleasantly as might be.

Another boy has been for years stopping on his way to school at the house of a poor woman to cut and carry fire wood.

I am sincerely grateful to the people of this District for the splendid support they gave me last Tuesday. It was up to them on that day to decide who their selection should be, and now the responsibility has shifted, and it is up to me to continue to put forth my best efforts in behalf of the people of this District and of the State of Illinois, and this I will surely do.

Why Should He Be Surprised?
Culture will crop out. A Boston golf player writes to the Outlook telling how his caddy gave him a bit of a surprise. The golfer had played his ball into the rough, and they had about given it up for lost, when suddenly the youngster's eye lit upon it. Did he holler, ungrammatically: "I got it, mister"? Not this lad. Raising the ball aloft, he exclaimed triumphantly: "Mirabile dictu—it's found!"—Boston Transcript.

Unnecessary.
A congregation of negroes was used to hearing sermons that harped continually on hell and eternal punishment. One hot summer day the preacher made no mention of hell. One of the congregation asked him why he had omitted it. "Everything in season," he replied. "De thainometaf wuz at ninety-foh while I wuz a-preachin' dat sthemen. Hell spoke for itself, I reckon."

Nature's Wonderful Power.
Beside the moist clouds the slender flags arise filled with the sweetness of the earth. Out of the darkness under that darkness which knows no day save when the plowshare opens its chinks—they have come to the light. . . . Yonder a steam-plow pants up the hill, groaning with its own strength, yet all that strength and might of wheels, and piston, and chains, cannot drag from the earth one single blade like these. Force cannot make it; it must grow—as easy word to speak or write, in fact full of potency. —Richard Jefferies, in "Out of Doors."

Cheerful Minds.
We are prone to think of contentment and happiness as things afar off which require much striving for, while all the time they may be close at hand if we will but keep our eyes and minds open. True entertainment means cheerfulness of mind and nothing can foster that more than little moments of happy contact with other cheerful minds.

Bowling Is Old Diversion.
Bowling once was forbidden by law. The game was originally nine-pins, and was called "closhe," the definition being given as: "Closhe, the game at nine-pins; forbidden by statute, anno 17 Edw. IV." The prohibition was afterward withdrawn and the game became very popular. It was once also a popular gambling game in the United States and in some states was prohibited by law. The law was evaded by adding another pin and calling it ten-pins.

Work Is Begun on Mokena's New $37,000 Church

Tuesday was the beginning of the building move on the new $37,000 St. John Evangelical church, when the foundation site was staked out by the building committee. Work on excavating for the basement will begin shortly. As the new edifice is to be a structure of large proportions, it will require all summer to build it.

A very tame election was held Tuesday, when the annual village election was held. The floating of a $1500 bond issue was the only ripple of interest, and that to a minor extent. Only 50 votes were cast, which registered the little interest the voters have in the affairs of the village. The bond issue received 47 votes for and 8 against. The regular village ticket was elected without opposition, as follows: Village clerk, Karl E. Krapp; village trustees, Albert Braun, Edward Scheukel and Ona E. McGovney. Mr. Krapp is the only new member on the board, he succeeding Willi m Semmler, who withdrew from local politics after eleven years of active service.

The village board will meet in monthly meeting next Wednesday evening, at which time the re-elected officers will be sworn into office. Considerable business will come up before this meeting.
